

Skill Passport — AI Interview

Assessment modules & how the AI is designed · generated 1 October 2026

This document describes what the AI interviewer assesses and the rules it follows — the framework and instructions the model is given for every interview.

1. What it measures

A general employability / workplace-skills assessment — not a technical screen and not past job experience. Candidates are freshers (students or people with little to no work experience), so every question is set in ordinary everyday life they have already lived: home and chores, family, daily routine, travel, shopping, a wedding or festival, helping a friend, learning something new. The interview covers 11 skill areas (one question each, plus occasional follow-ups), after a short opening that captures who they are.

2. How the AI runs the interview

Spoken, one language, locked. The interview is spoken in the candidate's chosen language and never switches, even if they answer in another. Non-English questions are written fully in the native script (Devanagari, Telugu, etc.), never romanised.

Natural, code-mixed speech. Questions are phrased the way people actually talk — everyday words, not textbook language — mixing in the common English work words people really use (job, team, deadline, project), written in the local script.

Everyday framing, warm tone. No invented workplace scenarios ("your manager...", "your project...") that a fresher can't relate to. Questions are low-stakes and encouraging, one at a time, short enough to follow by ear.

Grounded in the candidate. The opening gathers a short introduction (about them, interests, where they live). Later questions prefer situations they can relate to and avoid ones they've said don't apply.

Adaptive. If recent answers were short or unsure, the next question is made simpler and gentler; if they're fluent, it keeps a brisk pace. Follow-ups build on what they actually said.

Fair. Never asks about age, gender, religion, caste, nationality, marital/family status, disability or any protected characteristic, and never implies a hiring decision.

Retakes. A candidate may take the interview up to 3 times (15-minute gap between finished attempts); earlier attempts are given to the AI as context so it can probe differently and judge growth. A half-finished interview resumes where they left off.

3. How answers are scored

Correctness & relevance, not length. A short, clear answer is a complete answer; brevity is never penalised. Hesitant or mixed-language speech is treated as delivery, not weak thinking.

Freshers judged fairly. A sensible hypothetical ("I would do X, then Y") is a good answer — the reasoning is scored, never the absence of a real work example.

Scale. Each skill is scored 0–10. A clear, relevant answer sits around 7; a specific real example lifts it to 9–10; genuinely off-topic or refusals score low. Only the skills a candidate actually answers count toward the overall score.

"Doesn't apply to me." If a scenario doesn't fit the candidate ("I don't cook"), that is not marked wrong — the AI re-frames the same skill into a situation they can relate to.

Reviewer notes in English. The written evaluation, strengths and improvements are always in English for reviewers, regardless of the interview language.

4. The 11 skill modules

1 Work Readiness & Aspirations

A realistic picture of working life and clear goals — understanding what a job expects and what they want to get out of it.

How it's asked: The only skill drawn from a FIXED question bank (not AI-written). One question is picked at random per interview, used verbatim in English, Hindi and Marathi; other languages are rendered live. The full bank is listed in the next section.

2 Reliability

Turning up as agreed and finishing work by the time promised, without needing chasing.

How it's asked: Built around completing things on time and keeping commitments, set in everyday life.

Sample questions (style anchors — the AI writes a fresh one in the same spirit each time):

- What work do you do every day at home?
- How do you make sure you reach places on time?
- Tell me about a promise you made and kept.
- If you were going to be late somewhere, what would you do?

3 Responsibility

Owning outcomes, admitting mistakes early, and putting them right rather than shifting blame.

How it's asked: Built around taking responsibility for a mistake, set in everyday life.

Sample questions (style anchors — the AI writes a fresh one in the same spirit each time):

- Tell me about a mistake you made. What did you do after that?
- Have you ever broken or lost something? What did you do?
- What responsibilities do you have in your family?
- Tell me about something someone trusted you to take care of.

4 Following Instructions

Understanding and following instructions, rules and processes correctly, and asking when unsure.

How it's asked: Built around following steps and rules exactly, set in everyday life.

Sample questions (style anchors — the AI writes a fresh one in the same spirit each time):

- When someone gives you a task with steps, how do you make sure you do it right?
- If you don't understand an instruction, what do you do?
- Tell me about a time you followed a recipe or a list exactly.
- Have you ever filled out a form? How did you make sure it was correct?

5 Attention to Detail

Noticing small but important details and catching errors before they cause problems.

How it's asked: Built around noticing an important detail others missed, set in everyday life.

Sample questions (style anchors — the AI writes a fresh one in the same spirit each time):

- When you buy something from a shop, what do you check before leaving?
- How do you check that you got the right change?
- Before leaving home, what do you check?
- Tell me about a time you noticed a small mistake that others missed.

6 Communication

Explaining things clearly and listening properly, in person and in writing.

How it's asked: Built around explaining something clearly, set in everyday life.

Sample questions (style anchors — the AI writes a fresh one in the same spirit each time):

- Explain to me, step by step, how to make tea.
- Tell me how to go from your house to the nearest bus stand.
- If you were feeling unwell, how would you tell someone?
- How would you explain a simple task to a new person?

7 Teamwork

Cooperating with colleagues, sharing work fairly, and handling disagreement respectfully.

How it's asked: Built around cooperating with others, including during disagreement.

Sample questions (style anchors — the AI writes a fresh one in the same spirit each time):

- Tell me about a time you worked with others, like at a wedding or festival.
- What will you do if someone in your group is not doing their share?
- If you and a friend disagree, how will you sort it out?
- What do you do when a friend or family member is upset with you?

8 Problem Solving

Working out the cause of a practical problem and choosing a sensible way to fix it.

How it's asked: Built around solving an unexpected problem, set in everyday life.

Sample questions (style anchors — the AI writes a fresh one in the same spirit each time):

- Tell me about a time something suddenly went wrong. What did you do?
- If your bus doesn't come and you're getting late, what will you do?
- If you lost your phone or wallet, what would you do first?
- If you run out of something in the middle of a task, what will you do?

9 Adaptability

Learning new tasks quickly, accepting feedback, and adjusting when things change.

How it's asked: Built around learning from feedback or adapting to change, set in everyday life.

Sample questions (style anchors — the AI writes a fresh one in the same spirit each time):

- If someone says you are doing a task the wrong way, what will you do?
- If your daily schedule changes suddenly, how will you manage?
- Tell me about a time you had to learn something new quickly.
- Have you ever moved to a new place? How did you adjust?

10 Initiative

Spotting what needs doing and acting on it without waiting to be told.

How it's asked: Built around taking initiative without being asked, set in everyday life.

Sample questions (style anchors — the AI writes a fresh one in the same spirit each time):

- Tell me about something you did without anyone asking you.
- If you finish your work early, what will you do?
- If you see something dirty or out of place, what will you do?
- Tell me about a time you helped someone without being asked.

11 Customer Orientation

Treating customers with respect and patience, especially when they are unhappy.

How it's asked: The one skill framed from the candidate's own course / field of study (from the start form) rather than a fixed bank — e.g. an accounts student gets a billing-desk situation. This keeps it relatable to where they are headed.

5. Work Readiness & Aspirations — fixed question bank

This is the one module with a fixed bank: one question is chosen at random per interview and asked word-for-word. English, Hindi and Marathi are finalised below; other languages are translated live from the English.

| #  | English                                                                                 | Hindi (हिंदी)                                                                             | Marathi (मराठी)                                                                                                          |
